It was a cold, but glorious end to football season—Norse 53, Southwood 0.

Mr. Gray's art work made an attractive addition to the gym.

Looking Back

A pause
We turn and take
A backward glance at
Our years past.
We behold . . .
A profusion of memories.
The record has been written.
We are proud
And we are glad that our Fortunes let us walk
This way.

Familiar symbols, places remembered, long shadows falling across a page of history as a day draws to a close . . . a day to lead to another day . . . reminders to guide us along the pathways of life . . .
the dreams of our youth as they emerge from darkness. Looking back on Northfield High . . .

Mr. George Price, one of N.H.S. hippest administrators, lets out with one of his roaring hello's to the office secretaries. Wonder if he wears that hat to school board meetings?

Mr. Riley, Debbie Sommers, Teresa Meek, and Miss Cupp pose beside the snow sculpture the Art class had made.

Jr. High students signing up for a victory on a Backing the Norse poster.

Sophomore girls let loose at their class party. Now if they could just get in step.

Seniors, Sharon Schnepf and Linda Murray add up Sharon's money for the Senior magazine sale.

Mr. Christie, sponsor of the sophomore class, is wondering where all that food went to at the sophomore party.

Alice Durnbaugh, Mary Swank, and Rita Dale spend many hours practicing on the Parallel Bars before competing in the State G.A.A. Gymnastics Meet.

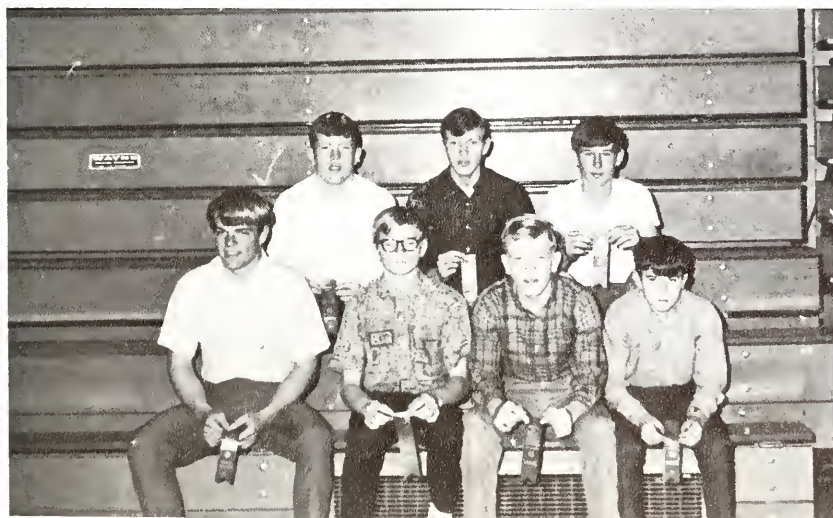

One of the big happenings during the year, the play Lil' Abner, with J. P. Mattern as Pa and Tara Bidwell as Ma Yokum.

Miss Durnbaugh must have told Miss Cupp that the stage scenery fell in.

Football has become a big sport this year at Northfield with a winning year behind us.

With help from Ron Baer, Mike Pretorius slipped past the Churubusco line and gained us several yards.

The Northfield Norsettes and Marching Band performed beautifully at half time.

Varsity Cheerleaders, Christi Long, Linda Yentes, and Cheryl Siferd lead the boosters in all out yelling for our great Northfield team.

Norse Have

An annual event during Homecoming is the huge bonfire as this one shown. This raises the Northfield spirit tremendously.

The lovely Miss Terri Stowe reigns as Homecoming Queen of 1967-1968.

Mike Pretorius seems to be under the swing of things this game. Watch out! Here come two more guys.

Another Homecoming Victory

Come on. Let's go! Get that ball down the field and make us another goal.

One of the most important annual events in the school year is Homecoming. Because Homecoming on September 22 was so early this year, float building was limited to a few entries offered by various clubs.

However, a bonfire in the parking lot and a pep session in the gym were held on Thursday prior to Friday night's game. Featured were skits and a snake dance sponsored by the cheerleaders.

Pre-Game activities included the crowning of Terri Stowe as our Homecoming Queen and the judging of the floats. The Marching Band provided the half-time show which featured music from recent popular musicals. The Norsemen maintained their undefeated status in Homecoming games by beating the Churubusco Eagles by a score of 19-7.

Crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Terri Stowe, took place in pre-game festivities with the Northfield Marching Band and Norsettes assisting.

Each class chose a queen candidate the week before Homecoming with final balloting taking place the day of Homecoming.

Since Pam Garrison, the 1966-67 queen, could not be here to crown the new queen, Northfield's exchange student, Berta Carrillo, did the honors.

The traditional Homecoming dance was held on Saturday night from 8 to 11. Music was provided by the Lord Chamberlains.

Prom & Banquet Decorations

Bob Sayre and Fred Miller—supervisors?

Terri and Maria are supervising Bob's, June's, and Linda's streamer hanging.

Ed Barker looks like he needs help.

Nancy Stanley, Carol Fansler, and Melba Parrett are beginning decorations in the cafeteria.

Mr. Miller is telling Mr. Spears, his student teacher, how you get the job done, while Dave Cartwright listens intently.

Prom Banquet 1968

The faculty patiently awaits the main course.

Approximately 250 juniors, seniors, and faculty members attended the banquet in Northfield's cafeteria. Mr. George Price acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the class presidents, the faculty, and the school board members.

The cafeteria was decorated with midnight blue and aquamarine streamers. Several floral centerpieces, which were given to the guests, decorated the tables. The meal, prepared by our cooks and served by the sophomores, was enjoyed by all.

Terri Stowe, Junior Class President, welcomes the senior class.

Tom DeArmond, Senior Class President, responds to Terri's welcome on behalf of the senior class.

Denny Flack, Phil Rogers, and Ben Corn with their dates, seem to enjoy wishing at the wishing well.

Kitty Chamberlain and Dallas Baer seem to have eyes only for each other as they enjoy the Prom.

Minda Powell, Gary Dillard, Larry Biehl, Cindy Odum, Carol Dale, and Marvin Horine await the next dance at the Prom.

Wonderland by Night

The wishing well seems to be of interest to these couples.

Turned into a "Wonderland by Night", the Northfield gym became the scene of the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom on May 4.

Couples entered the wonderland on a path which led through a rose covered trellis. The focal point of the gym was the beautiful wishing well. The west end of the gym was decorated with a solid blue wall on which was the silver-lettered theme. Directly below was a garden scene of Southern white garden furniture. At the opposite end of the gym was the band. The false walls and ceilings and the decorated tables added to the mood and helped to make the evening an enjoyable one for the 300 juniors, seniors, guests, and faculty members present.

Frank Neville and His Orchestra provided an evening of music.

Mr. Hite and date enjoy a formal evening as much as the students.

Berta-"68" Sweetheart Queen

Due to the lack of a band, Mr. Fansler became the official record changer.

Mr. and Mrs. Winegardner let loose at the close of the dance.

Cupid watches as the couples dance.

Approximately 175 people gathered at the cafeteria for the Valentine's Dance on February 10.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the queen. The candidates were Cheryl Biehl, Berta Carrillo, Sherri Bidwell, and Kathy Nees. Last year's queen, Cheryl Siferd crowned Berta Carrillo, Northfield's exchange student, the 1968 Valentine Queen. Her court included juniors—Vicki Story and Linda Yentes; sophomore—Carol Dale; and freshman—Christine Schnepf.

Decorations were red and white streamers with a large red cupid in the center of the dance floor. At the north end of the cafeteria there was a heart on the wall with a throne for the queen in front of it.

Queen Berta and her escort, Tom DeArmond.

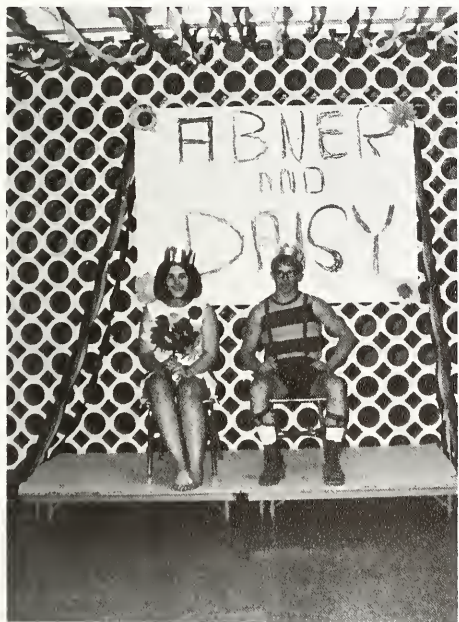

It's time to admire the lovely apparel before the dance begins.

Many a Sadie Caught Her Man

Sherri Bidwell and Ron Baer reign over Northfield's "dog-patchers" for the evening.

This year's Sadie Hawkins dance on April 6 enjoyed another large turn out. Ron Baer, Sophomore, and Sherri Bidwell, Senior, were crowned Li'l Abner and Daisey Mae this year. The other candidates were Rich Monce, senior; Mike Sampson and Debbie Elliott, Freshmen; Tina Walker, Sophomore; Gene Miller and Janet Landrum, Juniors.

The decorations included yellow, brown, and orange crepe paper for the cafeteria walls with an iron cooking pot bubbling over in the center of the dance floor. The guests enjoyed punch and doughnuts throughout the evening.

The Night Raiders from South Bend furnished psychedelic lighted music for the dance.

An Evening of One Acts

Ma-Melba Parrett, Caroline-Susanne Guttrich, Arthus-Keith Graham, Pa-John Schultz. Not pictured: Stage Manager-John Ferrier, Beulah-Cindy Shaffer.

"Impromptu"

Man, since the beginning of time, has sought to define life. Tad Mosel in his play IMPROMPTU seeks to find some answers to the question: what is life? by putting four characters on the stage and asking them to merely improvise a play. Perhaps the audience came to some of the same conclusions which the actors shared.

Mrs. Crawford-Becky Grossman; Miss Rowena-Tara Bidwell; Helen Crews—Lola Keffaber; Harvey-Mike Clarkson; Alma Jean-Mary Swank; Cutie—Judy Meyer; Ralph-Dennis Mobley.

"The Happy Journey"

THE HAPPY JOURNEY, a story of a family's journey from Newark to Camden, New Jersey during the days of the 1930's, presents a delightful and realistic look at everyday life. As he does in OUR TOWN, Thornton Wilder again employs the stage manager who takes the place of several characters and who looks on the action with an observant eye; as is also typical of his works, Wilder asks the audience to use their imaginations as he instructs the characters to pantomime much of the action.

Ernest-Tom DeArmond; Winnifred-Debbie Bozarth; Laura-Teresa Meek; Tony-Cam Huffman.

"The Midnight Caller"

Life in a boarding house in Texas seemed to be very stale, uneventful, uninteresting for a retired school teacher and two young clerical workers until two unusual boarders joined their company. For the one brought with her a "ghost" from her past—a ghost still very real who became a nightly midnight caller. A story of both humorous and tense human relationships, this play gives one insight into the complexities of life.

Fashions on Parade Is Style Theme

Priscilla Royer modeled an A-line skirt for school wear. A white blouse brought out the unique contrast.

"Fashions on Parade" was the theme of the Home Economics Department's spring style show, held in the cafeteria.

As the approximately 200 persons arrived, they were served punch and cookies.

Using the bright background of starred paper from the prom, the girls walked between the tables modeling their garments.

Approximately 130 girls from eighth grade through the senior class participated.

Anne Ride sewed her own yellow sheath dress for graduation. Accessories of a white purse, heels, and orchid gave a spring touch to the atmosphere.

During the style show, everyone enjoyed refreshments and commented on the delightful and creative fashions.

Keith, Larry, and Ben work hard on their last minute poster.

Jeff Leland, John Gage, and Craig McKillip stop for a quick chat before judging time.

Sixth Annual Science Fair

Students step back as the judges grade the project according to creativity, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity, and dramatic value.

Northfield held its annual Science Fair on March 15 in the Northfield gym. The many projects ranged from electricity to muscles. There were eleven first place winners: Melissa Jeffrey, Marvin Horine, Linda Murray, Larry Biehl, Lola Keffaber, Tom Stieglitz, Dave Keppel, Kitty Chamberlain and Becky Howard, Scotty Alber and Gary Fansler. Second place winners were Vickie Story, Brent Wilson, Connie Roth, Ed Barker, Cam Huffman, Judy Meyer, John Ferrier and Mike Clarkson, Craig Schnepf, Ronald Cullins, Randel Glassburn.

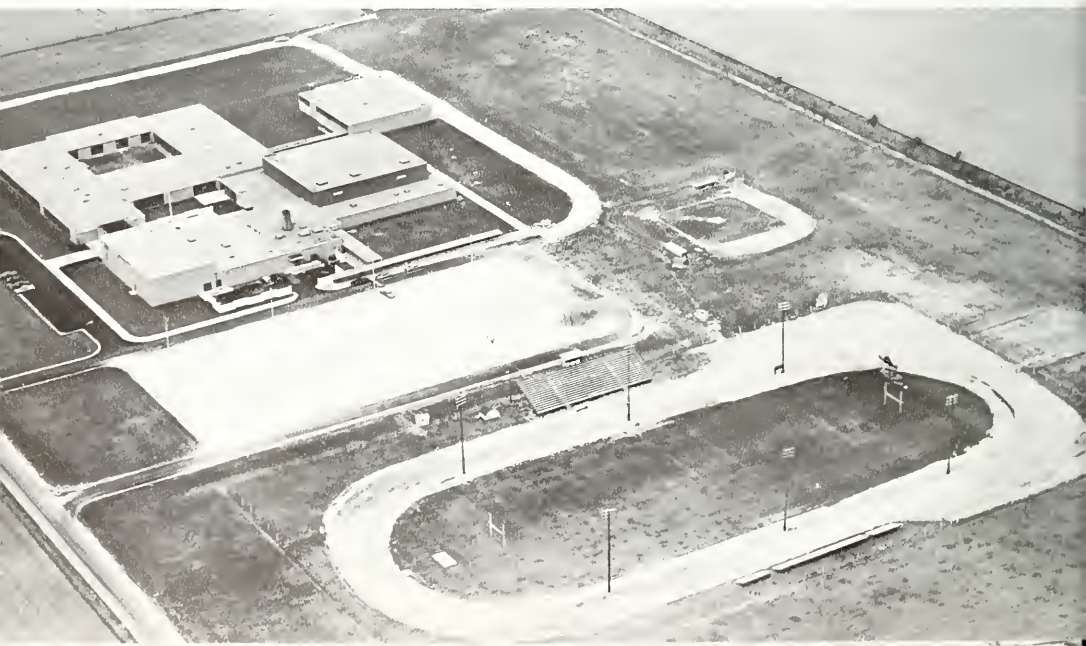

Two of the greatest ladder holders the Senior class had, John Schultz and Kim Huffman.

Watch out for those falling rolls of crepe paper gang. David, Lois, and Cheryl had to keep dodging those things all afternoon.

Practice, Decorate, Before the

This air view picture of good ole' N.H.S. is for the "68" Senior class to remember all the flying high times we have had there during the past six years.

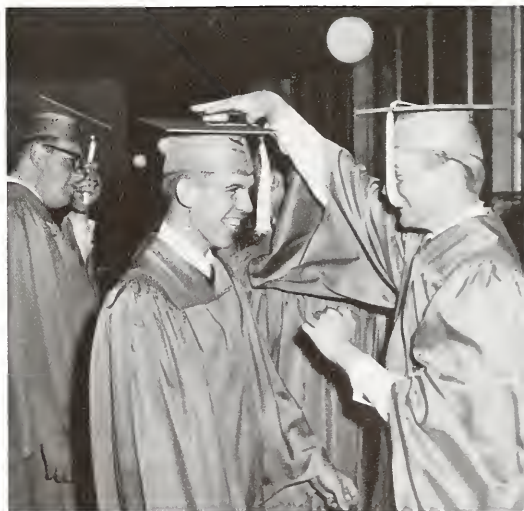

The first practice walk into the gym. The words keep in step, left-right, were drummed into our heads for that night.

Final Moment—Commencement

Glad height doesn't make these three guys dizzy or the Senior class wouldn't have any decorations.

The moment has finally arrived and Seniors are put on the finishing touches before that left, right, left walk.

Anita Baker, Herb Baker, and Jeff Baker are now graduates of Northfield High School.

Bert Carrillo and Merle Myers have just received the class flower and have only the walk down the aisle before graduation is over for them.

Six Long Years and Then

Dr. Herbert Schwomeyer, Dean of Men at Butler University delivers the Commencement address to the Class of 1968.

Mr. Wade and Elbert Carr hand Larry Conner his diploma as Mr. Fansler calls the names of the Class of 1968.

Cindy Shaffer and Deanne Dyson march down the aisle slowly and right in step to the music.

Part of the Class of 1968 waits the beginning of the Commencement exercises.

the Big Day

For the Class of 1968 Commencement was the greatest time in our lives. On May 22, 1968 there were 93 Seniors graduating from Northfield High School. Dr. Herbert Schwomeyer, Dean of Men at Butler University gave the address.

The gym was decorated with light blue and white streamers with the class motto, "Let Us Make Our Difficulties Stepping Stones To Success", in silver across the wall. The Seniors walked over a bridge decorated with flowers when they came in.

Over 1,500 people attended this years graduation.

Tom Brewer gives a mighty relieved look as he is congratulated by Mr. Dawes.

Mr. Dawes and Mr. Foster discuss some early morning school problems. (Do the problems ever end?)

The one teacher—who through his interest in us, catches our interest in his course.

The one class—to which we run, is the time of day when we don't count minutes.

These are the things people remember when looking back on N.H.S. Academics.

Mr. Price, Mr. Fansler and the wives exercise the privilege to sponsor school dances. One of the many extra jobs N.H.S. teachers do for the students.

English Dept. Teaches Both

Jane Cripe, Terri Stowe, Berta Carrillo, Becky Grossman, and Sandra Horner learn how to apply make up in Dramatics Class.

Rick Martin, and Art Strange listen as Mrs. Smith shows them what information they need for their book reports.

Mrs. Squires helps Norman Kirk as the rest of the junior English class looks on.

Kim Custer and Tara Bidwell represented Northfield at the Regional Speech Contest.

Ed Barker, John Schultz, and Cam Huffman read parts for the one act plays.

the Written and Spoken Word

Mr. Jones helps Richard Monce reword a paragraph in his research paper.

Nikki Anderson and Dan Royer are getting special help from Miss Durnbaugh.

Three years of high school English are required for graduation. Composition is emphasized the first semester and literature the second; however, provision is made to integrate these two areas on a limited basis. American literature is offered in the eleventh year. Senior English is available as an elective and is geared primarily to the requirements of the college-bound students. English literature is offered the second semester of the senior year. Seniors may also elect speech or dramatics to further their background in communications.

The English staff, throughout the 1967-1968 school year were engaged in an in-service program of curriculum study and textbook selection, under the guidance of Mr. Paul Jones, head of the department.

Ed Barker marries Mike Clarkson and Kraig Ahlfeld as Sandra Horner, a bridesmaid looks on. Relax—this was all part of a skit presented by the Dramatics Class at a pep session.

Math. Department Includes More

Mr. Christie helps Dennis Mouser with a problem as Dan Swihart watches.

The show case across the hall from the math room shows several of the math projects completed during the year.

Mr. Rice has Bob Norris go to the board to check one of his 8th grade math problems.

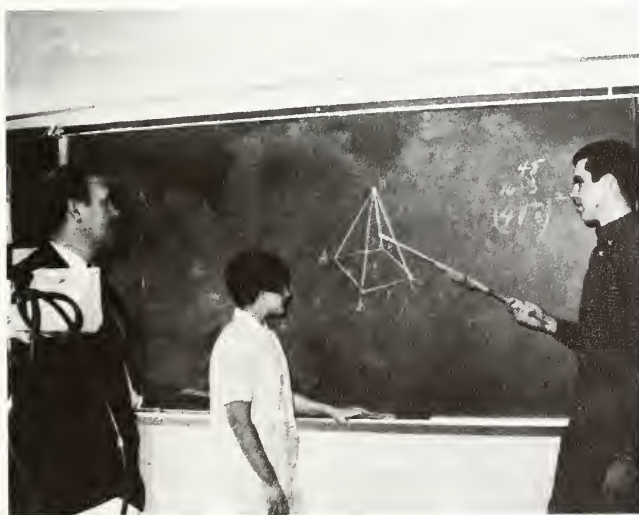

"Modern Math"

The mathematics students at Northfield this year have integrated into their program the interpretations of "modern math." These new ideas and methods taught to the students prepare them better for the technical jobs of the future.

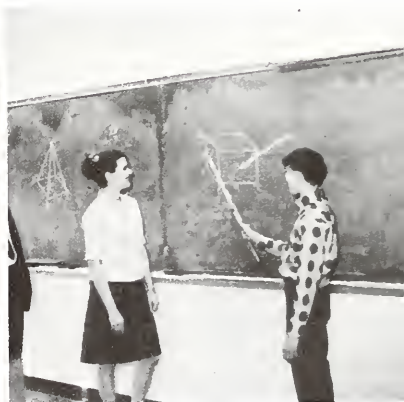

The Math Department at Northfield High School provides ample courses for every student's interest and ability. The courses offered are: general mathematics, Algebra I, Algebra II, plane geometry, trigonometry, introduction to calculus, analytic geometry, and an introduction to computer programming.

Mr. Riley goes over the days homework with his seventh grade math class.

Mr. Reahard listens as Darl Hall and Pat Garrison tell how they solved the problem.

Margo Copeland and Greg Gorsuch tell the class how they found the volume of this cube.

Preparing for a Complex World

Micky Baker, Steve Fleck, Lou Baldwin, and Susan Flohr study the parts of a starfish in Mr. Mast's 7th grade science class.

Barb Martin, the school nurse, helps Mr. Eiler and the advanced biology class type their blood.

It looks like the students in this chemistry lab know what they are doing.

The Northfield science program begins in the seventh grade. An introductory course is required in the seventh grade and then one semester as an elective is offered in the eighth grade. In the ninth grade two levels of biology are offered according to the ability of the student. One level of biology is required of all ninth graders. Beginning in the tenth grade, the student may elect to take advanced biology or chemistry. Physics is then offered to the eleventh and twelfth grades. This gives the student a chance to take four years of science in high school.

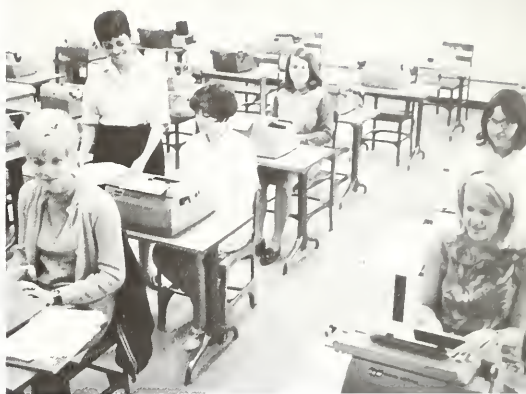

Mr. Eiler shows the internal structure of the heart to the advanced biology class.

Ben Corn, Janet Mouser, and Kraig Ahlfeld seem to be pondering a tough chemistry problem with Mr. Graham.

Mr. Duker, Northfield's bookkeeping teacher and book store manager. Without him many a student would be lost for a pencil.

Mrs. Mast explaining practice set to Sylvia Bean as the other girls try to increase their speed.

Business—Prepares People

Pam Wasem and Kathy Yentes learn how to run the office copying machine. Kathy will be the secretary at Northfield this summer, so she will have a lot of experience for secretarial practice next year.

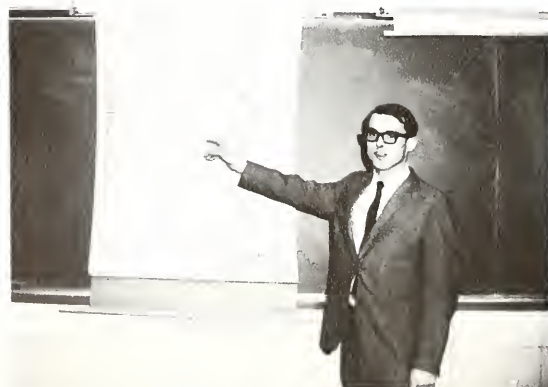

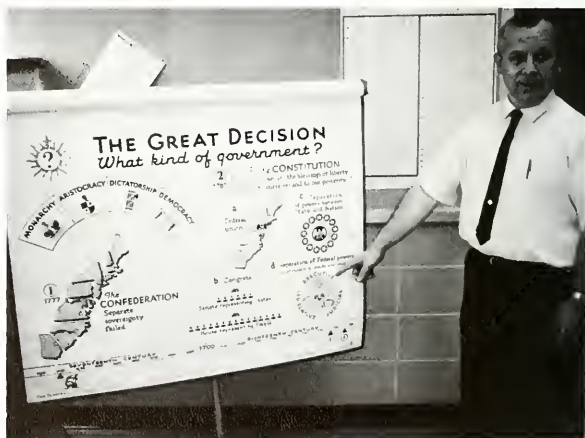

Northfield has a full business curriculum. Courses offered are: General Business, Typing I and II, Bookkeeping I and II, Shorthand I and II, business law, business mathematics, and secretarial practice. The secretarial practice course includes instruction on ten key and full key adding machines, automatic calculator, voicewriter, educator, and duplicating machines. It also includes a 12 week unit on filing. The highlight of the year for the seniors in secretarial practice is a trip to Fort Wayne for a tour through several businesses. This year we visited Midwestern United Life Insurance Company and Lincoln Life Insurance Company.

Social Studies Dept. Offers

Mr. Winegardner and his students in world history seem to find something amusing.

Mr. Rex Price and his senior government class discuss how our government functions.

Mr. Clark points out some of the historical spots in Indiana.

Courses for All

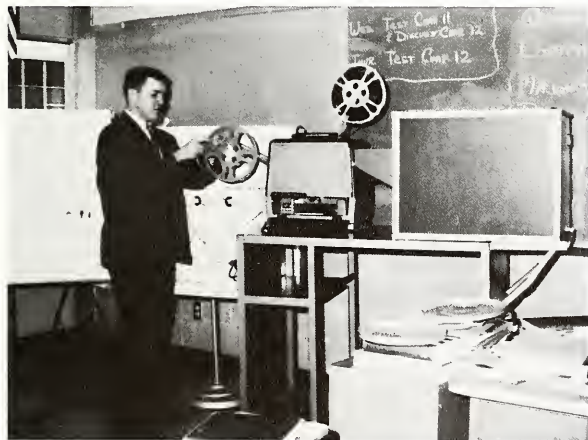

Social studies at Northfield High School begins in the seventh grade with Indiana History and geography. In the eighth grade a course in United States history is offered.

Orientation starts the freshman year as a required course. World geography and world history are electives in the sophomore year. American history is the required course of the junior year.

Seniors have two required courses, a semester of American government and another of economics. Two electives are available to seniors, a semester each of psychology and sociology.

Dave Cartwright says "I know its here somewhere!"

Mr. Kaltenmark is getting ready to show a film to his Psychology class.

Dennis Mouser, Rod Winters, and Steve Ahlfeld talk to Mr. Miller, who teaches 8th grade history, during study hall.

Sounds of Music

This year's department of music experienced one of its busiest in Northfield's short six year history. Music students adjusted to two new faculty members: Mrs. Carol Snyder, chorus; and Mr. Leonard Suesz, junior high band and stage band. Mr. Trump directed the high school band and acted as head of the department.

The band and chorus did very well at state contest and at the annual solo and ensemble contests.

On March 3, the High School Band and Chorus joined with those of the other three county high schools for the County Music Festival held here at Northfield.

A portion of the department worked hard to provide both choral and instrumental music for the spring musical, "Li'l Abner."

The chorus sang at baccalaureate and the band gave a Spring Concert and played for Commencement for a most rewarding and successful year.

Mr. Ross Trump, head band director, directing the junior high band.

Connie Cripe, J. B. Stanley, and Bill Yentes work on their trumpet parts with Mr. Suesz.

The County Musical Festival chorus practiced in our gym for the March 3 concert.

Mrs. Snyder and Royce Thrush work on some of the difficult spots in the musical score for Li'l Abner.

Mrs. Cramer uses the overhead projector in Spanish I.

Lynette Mollree, Carol Fansler, Debbie Bozarth, and Beth Hartong in Mrs. Deck's French II Class.

Mr. Wright discussing the Latin II lesson with John Reynolds, Keith Waggoner, Tina Walker, Debbie Foster, and Pat Garrison.

A Touch of Foreign Flavor

Mrs. Deck checks through French I papers.

Again this year Northfield has offered three foreign languages: French, Spanish, and Latin. For the first time, Spanish was offered as an introductory course for eighth graders.

In high school, French was offered for three years and was taught by Mrs. Deck; while Spanish and Latin, taught by Mrs. Cramer and Mr. Wright, were offered for two years.

In addition to regular classroom study, each language has its extracurricular club, which offered many interesting activities and an opportunity to converse in French or Spanish.

Art Reveals Students Personality

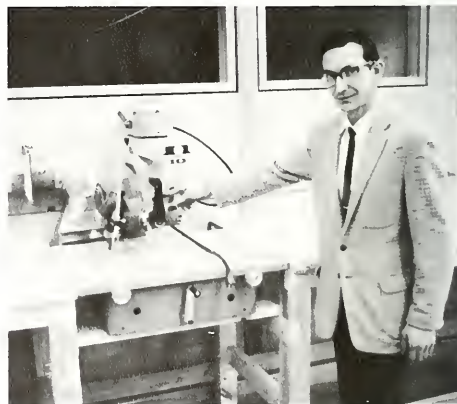

Jerry Staten, Kerry Harmon, and Janet Siders, check with Miss Cupp on their grades.

This year the activities of the Art Department ranged from working on an Art Fair to simple drawing exercises, and back again to designing scenery for Li'l Abner. As everyone is looking ahead to the future, the Art Department is no exception. Within the next few years it is hoped that four years of high school art may be offered instead of the present three years.

Creations in Metal or Wood

Courses in the Industrial Arts Department are general shop, drafting, general woods, general metals, general electricity and power mechanics. A study of theory in each of these courses is combined with the practical application in the shop room. Boys are urged to acquire the knowledge and skill which are needed to do a job the right way and to do it well. Modern machinery helps students in shop classes gain valuable experience needed for careers in engineering and industry.

Mr. Weekley points out the new exhaust system installed this year on a radial arm saw.

Mr. Piasik is supervising the work of Rod Titus, Eugene Young, Randy Davidson, J. B. Stanley, Eric Fleck, Ernie Holycross, Greg Schenkel, Keith Koch, and David Rensberger in drafting class.

Linda Murray, Becky Grossman, and Bev Cleaveland finishing up their dresses for the style show.

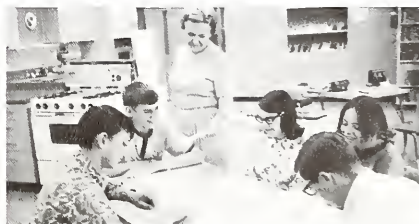

Mrs. Cooper is discussing with her Home Ec. class how to prepare a well-balanced meal.

Girls Prepare for Future

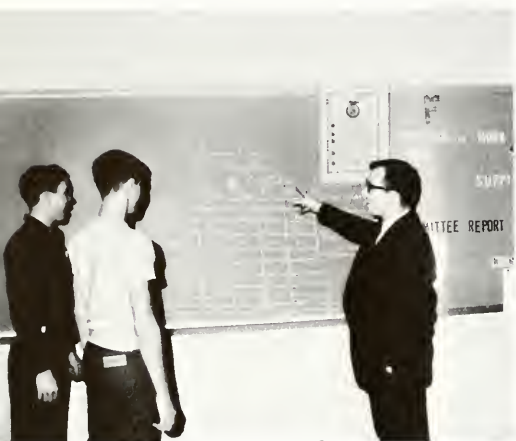

Mrs. Petty is telling her girls how to choose a pattern.

Home economics is required of all eighth grade girls. This course is a brief view of all phases of homemaking from clothing selection and simple construction to food preparation and serving. Home Economics I, II, and III must be taken in proper sequence. These courses emphasize nutrition, food preparation, a continuing study of more advanced clothing, home nursing and child care. Home Economics IV is a non-major course in which students study marriage, housing, budgets, comparative buying, meal preparation and garment construction.

Mrs. Cooper also teaches a freshman English class.

Ag Prepares Boys for Future

Mr. Harts explaining parliamentary procedure practice of F.F.A. to two of his Ag boys.

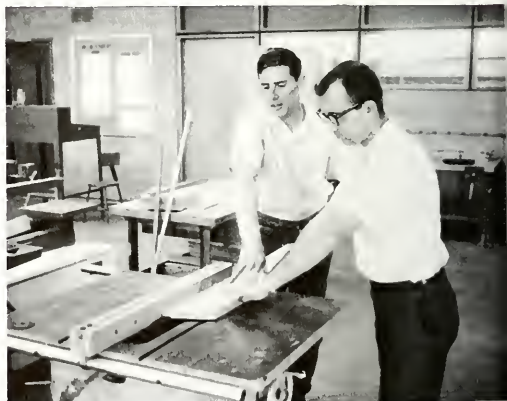

Mr. Foster had a science class, a subject closely related to most aspects of agriculture.

All eighth grade boys are introduced to a semester of general agriculture which is highlighted by competitive bulletin board displays, nailbox, and a livestock notebook.

The high school curriculum is composed of two years of basic production agriculture. In these years the boys plan their agriculture experience program and start their work in FFA.

The junior students are able to select an option to specialize in their training. The different options include production agriculture, agriculture mechanics, and ag science.

Mr. Foster and Mr. Harts lining the saw up for the Ag boys to cut wood for a project.

Mr. Harts also had a science class this past year.

Becky Corn and Mrs. Anglin watch as Judy Black and Carol Dale do finger exercises?

Tom Bever and Bob Shultz listen to Mr. Smucker explain offensive positions.

Physical Education Is Important

Mr. Smucker giving directions.

Delinda Dyson looks like she is enjoying this modern dance movement Mrs. Anglin is teaching them.

Requirements in the Physical Education Department at Northfield comply with state law of one semester of physical education in the freshman and sophomore years and one semester of health for sophomores.

The study of health aims to teach a better understanding of the human body and its functions.

In physical education, boys and girls learn various kinds of dancing, balancing on the beam, use of the trampoline, tumbling, and play such sports as volleyball and basketball.

Mrs. Anglin changes the record so Kay Pankop, Vicki Young, and Sharon Polk can square dance.

Metropolitan

Mr. Lawrence Wade, Superintendent.

Mr. George Price, Assistant Administrative Superintendent.

The Metropolitan school board includes Darle Dawes; Lawrence Wade, Superintendent; Elbert Carr, President; Robert Clark, Robert Rice, and Joe Cooper, who was elected to finish the term of Herman Hood who died suddenly last fall.

Other members of the Metropolitan School District office personnel are Mrs. Helen Graham, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Finance, Margaret Guenin, Secretary, and Bonnie Corn, Receptionist. Mr. Charles Tiede is the school attorney.

and Northfield Administration

As another year passes, we are reminded again of the importance of meeting each day's responsibilities. Northfield, now six years of age, has become established as an institution of learning. The community which it serves has quickly and quietly with enthusiasm accepted the offerings that it has provided.

During the short period of our school's history, we find that the changing times and the rapid prosperous growth of our immediate national and world areas have forced upon all a new look at all institutions of learning. May our wish for Northfield be that it keep abreast of the needs and strive always to meet the challenge of the period in which we live.

A challenge to all students—past, present, and future of Northfield came from our late Senator Robert F. Kennedy who often quoted the following from George Bernard Shaw, "Some men see things as they are, and say why. I dream things that never were, and say why not."

Mr. James Armstrong, Athletic Director and Assistant Principal.

This is the last year that Betty Cooper served as Treasurer. Since Northfield began she has been a tremendous help to all, but especially to those class and club treasurers and sponsors who seem to always have trouble balancing their books, getting money turned in, and getting bills paid. We thank her for all her assistance.

Mr. Wilbur Dawes, Principal.

Mrs. Dorothy Merrick, Receptionist and Secretary.

Mr. Fansler, head guidance counselor, explaining test regulations before he lets the Juniors start the SAT test.

Mrs. Price, reading up on the job of counseling high school students.

Mr. Fansler discussing the problems of college with parents and students.

Guiders of Our Futures

Mrs. Guttrich, the junior high counselor, talking to three of her students.

The Guidance Department has an essential function at Northfield, that of helping students made decisions about high school courses, post-high school education, vocation and personal problems.

Standardized tests administered through this department give the counselor and the student himself a better understanding of individual problems.

A counselor is always available to help a student with any of his concerns, whether they involve his present or his future education or his most personal problems.

Mr. Fansler about ready to stop the juniors on the math section of the SAT test.

Mr. Wilmer Hantelman, Head Custodian, whose job it is to supervise the upkeep of the building and the grounds.

Mr. Ralph Price and Mr. Bob Cole, the custodians who daily clean up after us. Mr. Cecil Honeycutt, night custodian, is not pictured.

The Keepers of Our School

Mary McLaughlin-Head Cook, Carolyn Vrooman, Olive Matern, Marge Stoffer, Ruth Long, Helen Hauptert, Eleanor Wilson.

No business or building could function without custodians. Our staff does an excellent job of keeping equipment in good working order, cleaning up after 700 students and faculty members each day, moving bleachers and chairs around the building, and loaning or finding tools for anyone that needs them.

We also have wonderful cooks. It is a safe bet that no other school in the country has special made "Norse" burgers. Besides preparing and serving our meals, they find time to show the students they are behind them by the extras that they do—decorating the cafeteria windows, serving special banquets, as the meal they prepared for our basketball team.

Miss Cupp, art club sponsor, listens to the judges opinions of the art club's work at the art show.

Council Steers Students

Mike Yates speaks about some of Northfield's minor problems. The representatives then decide what is to be done.

The Student Council functions as the student governing body at NHS and is the principal service organization of the school.

Its many activities include: the program for Homecoming, which includes the election of queens, judging of floats, and a dance; supervision of the extras at Christmas—a tree, hall decorations, and a special dance; the traditional Sadie Hawkins dance in April. Among the services of the Student Council is the coat check during basketball season, which is one of its best money-making projects; the sale of ice cream during the lunch hour; and the provision of special convocations, for which the Council pays.

The 1967-68 Student Council president, Mike Yates, attended the Indiana University Student Council Workshop last summer.

Officers of Northfield's Student Council were active in the Intercounty Student Council with Mike Yates serving as President and Sherri Bidwell, secretary.

N.H.S. Honors Academic Scholars

Becky Grossman, Peggy Cordes, and Susie Bever serve the teachers and guests at the annual Career Day Program.

The National Honor Society promotes scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and character within Northfield High School. This year students were given two choices of vocations that they wanted to attend when representatives from those various areas came for Career Day.

On May 27 the Honor Society spent the evening at the Salamonie rejoicing over the last day of school. A bonfire, games, and plenty of food was provided.

Juniors and seniors are eligible for the Honor Society. A prerequisite is obtaining a "B" average or better in all subjects throughout the entire school year. They must then be voted upon by the faculty as to their character, leadership, and service.

Northfield's club for Latin students re-organized into the Concilium Olympium this year. They meet regularly on the Calends and the Ides of each month. Reorganization included the revision of the club's constitution by the officers and the sponsor.

To provide for increased opportunities for learning and enjoyment, the Concilium Olympium has applied for membership in the National Junior Classical League, a national organization for high school students of Latin. Dues of one dollar per year provide the necessary funds for conducting the group's activities.

Le Cercle Français Members ont appris' la langue d'amour

This early morning meeting seems to be stimulating a lot of discussion.

Le Cercle Francais has had its usual busy year with regular monthly meetings, one of which was an invitational meeting on February 19 with the French Clubs from Wabash and Manchester as guests.

The beginning of each program was devoted to some cultural aspect of the French. This helped create an interest in France and promote a better understanding of the country in which the language is most prominent.

Among the firsts for the year was a decision to award honorary emblems to any French student who received all A's for the year and letter awards for outstanding contributions, attendance at meetings, service as an officer and for good citizenship.

Spanish Club Has Busy Year

The Spanish Club had a very big year. The projects were larger with more members than ever before. The first project was to raise enough money to bring Berta Carrillo's brother, Rafael, to visit her at Christmas. Berta, the exchange student from Guatemala, and Rafael, living with an uncle in California, had not seen each other for more than a year. The Leon Bidwells at Roann are Berta's American parents and they also opened their home to Rafael while he was here.

The last party of the year was an experiment in Mexican food. A Mexican meal of tacos, chips and frijoles, and cokes was served to the members.

The club also bought awards to be presented to the Spanish students who earned all A's during the school year. There were five awards presented at the awards convocation; they went to Jim Horner, Susan Krom, Barbara Lynn, Diana Sparling, and Judy Black.

Berta, Mrs. Cramer, and Rafael welcome guests to an open house at the Cramer residence where students and teachers could come to talk with our exchange student and her brother.

F. T. A. Members Plan, Dream, and Study

Jane Forrester presents Kathy Nees with an umbrella in appreciation for her excellent teaching in the 7th grade English class.

Future Teachers of America is a club with a practical purpose—to acquaint high school students with the qualifications for the teaching profession. Through the Exploratory Teaching Program of the Metropolitan School District, FTA members get actual experience in the classroom. Exploratory teachers in turn report on their experiences to the club at regular meetings. Films relative to the teaching profession are also part of their regular programs. Meetings are held in the evening. This year the group sold School Record books which have provisions for a child's complete school record from grade one through twelve. The local chapter of Future Teachers of America is a charter member of the national organization. Officers of FTA are elected in the spring so that they may organize activities for the coming year.

Tri-Hi-Y is a service organization affiliated with the YMCA. This year the Tri-Hi-Y has been busy with making religious education booklets for elementary schools, sponsoring a used clothing drive, sponsoring the Easter convocation, and entertaining Wabash's Tri-Hi-Y at an evening meeting. The formal initiation of new member and officers was on November 20th, parents and guest attended. Becky Grossman, secretary, attended State summer camp. Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Smith, Tri-Hi-Y sponsors, hope that next year will bring forth many more service projects for the Tri-Hi-Y.

Chalk Horse Claims Ribbon

Doris Bever displays her prize chalk horse, winner of the Art Contest.

For the first time in the history of Northfield, an Art Club was formed. Miss Cupp, the sponsor, made it all possible. Our first major project was Christmas decorations and centerpieces. These were sold during the basketball games to provide funds for the club treasury.

In April we presented an art contest, which was open to all who were interested. Judges criticized and commented on all works and how they could be improved.

As a final plan for the year, we held a picnic at the Salomonie Dam on May 26.

G. A. A. Enjoys Busy Year

The Girls Athletic Association completed a very successful 1967-68 season. With a total membership of forty, our year's activities included soccer, basketball, gymnastics, bowling, and tennis. In April we were very proud to send Rita Dale, Mary Swank, and Alice Durnbaugh to the State Gymnastics Meet at Ball State University. Our money-making projects included the sale of NHS pins and a bake sale at Warren, Indiana. To bring our year to a close, Pat Fleck, Linda Felabom, Rita Dale, Mary Yoder, and Theresa Hauptert attended the District GAA Camp at Epworth Forest in North Webster, Indiana. Although the pleasures were many, the members and officers of 1968-69 are planning new and better things for next year.

"N" Club Has Annual Steak Dinner

Mike Ferguson—President of the, "N" Club, makes a speech at the sectional victory celebration as Mike Pretorius, Rick White and Rich Monce, other N club members look on.

"N" Club is an honor society for all Northfield High School athletes who have earned a varsity letter in any school sport; its purpose is to promote good sportsmanship.

Members of "N" Club sell advertising for the programs which are available at no cost to all spectators at Northfield athletic events.

Since the club is an honorary, it has no other regularly organized activities. However, a traditional steak fry is held for all members each spring, and the organization also sponsors a special convocation every year.

Math and Science Club

The annual science fair is the highlight of the year for most members of the Math and Science Club. Out of the 13 entries, in both junior and senior divisions from the local fair, who entered regional competition, seven Northfield students received placings. Membership in the Math and Science Club is open to any student enrolled in a science or math class or any student who has had two years of math or science. The Northfield club is affiliated with the National Science Clubs of America.

The fact that Northfield's chapter of Future Farmers of America won the Superior Chapter Award in state competition attests to its very active membership. Outstanding events were the annual Tractor Pull, attendance at the Farm Progress Show and the club's Supervised Farming Program. An innovation was a "Pig Chain," whereby FFA supplies gilts to members who in turn pay back from the litter to supply other members.

This has been a money-making year for FFA with $1477 taken in from sale of Slow Moving Vehicle signs and $300 from the Slave Auction. Delegates to the FFA National Convention were Dennis McKillip, Randy Thrush and Gene Miller.

The purpose of the Audio-Visual Club is to help the teachers with the Audio Visual equipment and films. Many educational films are rented and shown as part of the regular classroom presentations. The Club is limited to twelve members who learn to run the projectors and do minor repairs on some of the equipment.

An all-school movie was shown the evening of April 1. One of the featured movies was THE FALL OF THE HOUSE OF USHER by Edgar Allen Poe.

The members of the club also joined in with the Spanish Club in helping with the expenses of bringing Rafael Carrillo to visit Berta at Christmas.

Library Club Indexes New Materials

Mrs. Bozarth, head of Northfield's library, helping Rita Dale find the information she needs to prepare a speech.

This year a great number of books were added to the library. So many, in fact, that a new card catalogue file was purchased. The file is almost twice as big as the previous one. A new atlas and dictionary stand was also obtained for the students' convenience. Another addition is a microfilm reader, which will enable the students to find the information they need if the magazine itself is lost.

Dramatics Club - Best Ever

Someone has said that "Acting is believing;" this year many actors were led to believe that theatre work can be a worthwhile endeavor.

November brought "An Evening of One Act Plays" and a hearty reception by members of the community. The individual casts performed with a deep sensitivity and understanding of character.

The dramatics class worked on a unique Christmas play and presented it as a class project to the entire student body on December 22. This play "The Christmas Courier" was also well received.

In April, the Drama Department joined forces with the music and art departments to present our first Broadway musical-LI'L ABNER. Directed by Miss Dunbaugh (libretto), Mrs. Snyder (vocal), Mr. Trump (orchestra), Mrs. Anglin (choreography), and Miss Cupp (art design). "Standing room only" crowds gave our Dogpatchers a rousing ovation. "The smell of the greasepaint, the roar of the crowd . . ." and the anticipation of an even better year to come . . .

Interscholastic competition seems to keep the school spirit alive; this spirit, the thrill of competition, the effort of teamwork, and the satisfaction of winning are the core of not only athletics but the NHS Speech Team. Last year a few individuals set the pace in a new club, this year a team set the pace for our school.

Participating in nine meets, NHS succeeded in placing finalists in 8 and giving "our friends to the south" some real competition. In addition to meets individuals presented several programs throughout the year.

The highlight of the year was of course our "snowbound sectional." Tara Bidwell and Kim Custer survived the rigorous competition to compete in the Kokomo regionals. Three persons received the Degree of Excellence from NFL; 14 students received Degree of Merit.

Next year we look forward to hosting the central Indiana Speech Conference Meet on January 18, 1969 . . . and to a championship.

Journalists Learn Tricks of the Trade

Members of the paper staff and Mrs. Squires put finishing touches on the paper before sending it to the printer.

Kay Grandstaff, the North Star's faithful typist.

Members of the journalism class publish the North Star, the official monthly newspaper for Northfield High School. Each semester the class elected editors and business heads; the editors then assigned everyone to a position on the staff.

The newspaper varied from a two-page extra prior to the Regional Basketball Tourney to a special issue of ten pages for the Sectional. Good coverage of all school news-curricular and extra-curricular was the aim of this year's staff.

Financing was from sale of the advertising to merchants in the area and from sale of the paper to students.

Expenses included printing, pictures and mailing. This year the North Star became a member of the National Scholastic Press Association and mailed a copy of the paper to all servicemen alumni.

Near the end of the school year the staff treated itself to a dinner.

One of the North Star editors, Kim Custer, took part in WOWO'S High School Reporter program and wrote a column of news each week for the Plain Dealer.

Editing a yearbook is probably one of the most difficult and time consuming projects during a person's high school years. Study halls, extra minutes between classes, and those after school sessions are all part of what makes up a good yearbook.

Selling yearbooks are big projects for many annual staff people, and we wish to thank all those who work so hard.

This year has been one of reorganization for the annual staff. With the increase of sixteen pages and many new people on the staff, we got off to a slow start. But as the year passed the organization of the staff improved. So we hope that you enjoy the 1967-68 Shield.

Mr. Miller talking calmly with a referee? Now this is a happening for the athletic department.

Wild happy crowds are always a part of Northfield's athletics.

The game's on—play hard fight fair and clean, and win! The flame of victory is within us—we are strong and confident.
Crash through, lay it up,
leap for the tape, strain for that last yard. The flame has pasted, the victories remembered.

Come on Norsemen, just a little farther to that goal line and a victory.

Support Was Great in "68"

Junior Varsity-Rhonda Cunningham, Carol Dale, Bev McVicker, Cindy Swan.

The girls cheerblock started off the year by making their own vests and gloves. This was the first time they had ever tried to make outfits, and even though it was quite a job, their appearance showed it was well worth the effort.

Another first was an attempt to organize a junior high cheering section of both boys and girls. They added a lot and we hope to improve on this organization another year.

Our cheerleaders again did a wonderful job of raising and directing the tremendous school spirit that built up as the year went along. Winning our first sectional meant additional work for both cheerleaders and cheerblock—work that would gladly be done again!

7th Grade Football

Initiation of seventh grade football was a new experience for Northfield this year.

Twenty-five boys started the season and twenty-two finished. The enthusiasm shown indicates the acceptance of this new program.

Although the season's record was not impressive, the coaches felt that it added much to the total football program and that the basic fundamentally orientated program will be shown in future Norse teams.

These young Northfield football players wait for a chance to get on the field to help their teammates.

The Norse ended the regular season with a 14-6 record. They had wins over such outstanding teams as Maconaquah, Rochester, and Mentone. In the Huntington Sectional, the Norse opened with a win over a fine Huntington squad. In the semi-finals, the Norseman took Huntington Catholic and then in the finals defeated the Wabash Apaches for the first sectional title in Northfield's brief history. In the regional, the Norse failed to play up to their potential and were defeated by the Manchester Squires. Several fine seniors contributed to this outstanding 17-7 season. Included in this group were Mike Pretorius, Phil Rogers, Rich White, Mike Ferguson, Rich Monce and Mike Yates.

Without a doubt this has been the finest year for the Norsemen. The outstanding senior athletes of 1967-68 will never be forgotten and they certainly gave the future teams a record to shoot for.

Mike Yates of Northfield tries to out maneuver Jon Miller of Wabash at the final game in the Sectional. Mike came out on top in the end.

Coaches Kaltenmark and Smucker greet Swank following his record breaking run at the Sectional.

Again this year the Norse cindermen have been seriously hampered by the lack of adequate track facilities. Though this young team had a gloomy start, several individuals showed tremendous improvement during the season. Three boys qualified for the sectional—Ben Corn, pole vault; Steve Dyson, high jump; and Bob Swank in the two mile run. Despite an injury, Bob ran and won the two mile run setting a new sectional record with a time of 9:44.1. In fact, Bob's time was the second fastest in any track sectional in the State. However, due to an injury to his foot, Bob was not able to take part in the Regional competition. So he ended the season undefeated. With the completion of our new track, the boys are looking forward to establishing new records for Northfield's first track. Good luck Bob. We expect to see you at the State next year.

Since there are no seniors on the team, Northfield can look forward to the coming year for cross country.

Charles gained 42 points for the team and placed second in the Manchester Invitational. Art Strange finished the season with a 9-8 record. He gained 33 points for the Norse. J. P. Mattern and Greg Gorsuch both gained 19 points for the junior varsity games. Although the Norse grapplers didn't fair too well during the season they placed 6th in the Tipton Invitational and 11th in the Sectional.

N.H.S. to a Victorious Year!

Posing prettily for the camera are Sherri Bidwell, Vale-dictorian; and Herb Baker, Salutatorian. Good Work!!!

The school year of 1967-68 contained many firsts but one of those was more directly related to the Class of '68. We were the first class to complete all six years at Northfield! This one small thought seemed to increase our spirit and made each senior's wish to make this year the most fruitful, for himself and for his fellow students in athletics, activities, and school work.

The senior class was very proud of the athletic season this year. The great football team and then a basketball team which made it to the Regional—These things encouraged school spirit.

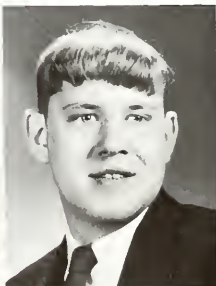

Everyone enjoyed the class party. Between the games, entertainment, food, and picture taking, each Senior found something to suit his taste.

And then the big day—Commencement. It started off with nearly the whole class break-fasting at the Town Crier and then back to school for rehearsal. And then that night it was all over. The Class of '68 was no longer united instead each member was free to go his own way.

The Class of '68 hopes it has left something to the student body of NHS, even if it is only memories of the great school year 1967-68.

School Activities

The junior class of 1968 was involved in a very active year. Terri Stowe represented the class as its candidate for Homecoming Queen; she was later chosen by the student body for this honor. The juniors combined their efforts to sell $3,202.71 worth of magazines to defeat the seniors. Cooperating with the seniors, they co-sponsored the annual Sweetheart Dance in February.

As the year progressed, they began plans for the prom. "Wonderland By Night" was chosen for the prom theme with class colors of midnight blue and aquamarine used in their decorations. The juniors chose a rose for their class flower and their motto: "Knowledge comes but wisdom lingers."

As a result of their hard work and direction of their class officers, the Junior class presented a memorable prom. Officers were: Steve Flohr-Vice Pres., Terri Stowe-President, Janet Mouser-Treasurer, and Susie Bever-Secretary.

Choosing rings heads Sophomore Year

Our sophomore year, to say the least, has been unforgettable. Tina Walker couldn't have been more appealing than she was as she represented the class as Homecoming Queen Candidate; she was backed by many enthusiastic supporters. Our sophomore Sweetheart, Carol Dale, was equally attractive as the class candidate at the Sweetheart Dance. Ronnie Baer was crowned L'il Abner at the Sadie Hawkins Dance. These people and many others have combined their efforts to make the past year a memorable one for the Class of '70."

True Norsemen

As freshmen this year, we had no opportunity to make a float for the homecoming. However, Liz Hipskind made a lovely candidate to represent our freshmen class for Homecoming. The "Midnight Luv" including Dennis Shellenbarger, Steve Baker, Randy Cleaveland and Henry West provided the music for our class party.

A busy year keeps Freshmen class officers Dennis Mouser-President, Luann Yentes-Treasurer, Diana Sparling-Secretary, and John Myers-Vice President, on the go.

Presenting the Eighth Grade

Receiving basketball awards is a happy occasion—right boys?

The class of 1972 enjoyed a busy year together. Our sponsors were Mr. Weekley, Mr. Graham, Mrs. Snyder, and Mrs. Guttrich. Joyce Wilson represented our class in the Journal Gazette Spelling Contest. She also received the Outstanding Band Award. Randy Unger received the sportsmanship award at the Manchester Invitational Junior High tourney. We ended the year with a class party in the cafeteria on May 18.

Northfield became a challenge to 116 seventh graders in the fall of '67. The class was organized under the guidance of Mr. Clark, Mr. Riley, and Mrs. Smith. The class of '73 made its contribution to the total school program. Gary Barlow won a trophy for his achievement in the Junior High Band. Dale Smith took second place in an Oratorical contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in Wabash. Cathy Hoover represented the class at the Kiwanis Club spelling contest at Wabash. After school one sockhop was enjoyed by a combined 7th and 8th grade group. A most successful class party climaxed a year of progress and pleasure.

Seventh Grade Officers this year were: Tim Bever-President, Dale Smith-Vice President, Janice Oswalt-Secretary, John Baer-Treas.

We started the year with fifteen students. Two of the boys, Eddie Hitlaw and Bill Branham, began working at Workshop Enterprises, Inc. in March and two students moved in May, so the year ended with eleven.

Some of the pupils were also enrolled in Physical Education, Art, Home Economics, Indiana History, and Geography classes.

Two of the boys, Eddie Selleck and Charles Bidwell, spent their noon hours in a profitable way, working in the kitchen.

Roy Lane and Eddie Selleck entered their Art Projects in the Art Fair in April. Eddie took a first in Ceramics and an Honorable Mention for Best of Show and Roy won a third in Ceramics.

We finished up our display on Communications in April. This was a class project and will be on display this October at the Indiana State Teachers' Convention. All in all, it was a busy, profitable, and enjoyable year.

Berta

Berta Marina Carrillo Corado
Zona Vial No 5
Quetzaltenango, Guatemala
Guatemala, Central America

Esteemed Friends:

I will always remember the first day I came to NHS, when I was afraid, and I wondered how it would be.

My first football game, when I met most of the kids and we had so much fun at all the football games. I remember how at the end of the football season everybody told me they couldn't wait for the basketball season; and they also asked me if I liked it, and when I answered not too well, everybody thought I was nuts! And now that I look back, I think they were right. I enjoyed football, and especially basketball at tourney time. I hope that in 69 we win another sectional and hope we get the regional too.

Something that we don't have in Guatemala, and I am going to miss very much, is that white, soft snow. Something unforgettable will be my snow ball fights and my attempts to skate were really rough.

I will never forget all the great times I have had at NHS, and also I will remember the things I have learned. I hope someday, not too far away, our countries come to a better understanding, for the good of all of us.

If some day you get to go to Guatemala, please be sure to write me, and I will be glad to show you all the delightful, picturesque, friendly and . . . romantic little places that my country has. When I left Guatemala, a year seemed like a long time, but now since it is over, it seemed so short, so terribly short, that I wish I could relive it again. Thank you.

Love,
Berta

Berta, with three other Wabash County Foreign Exchange Students, at one of the many activities Berta attended during the year.

"68" Shield, Editor-in-Chief

Lois Quivey
Editor

Dear NHS Students,

This year has been a year of changes for the Shield and its staff. The Shield was increased sixteen pages, and there were many new, inexperienced people on the staff including myself.

I want to thank Mrs. Mast for all her help this year. I don't know what I would have done without her.

Best of Luck next year Lynette. May you and Mrs. Mast meet all your deadlines and have lots of helpful people on your staff.

I hope that through this book all NHS students can look back and relive many happy memories; like our first Sectional Victory, the great football season, and the overflowing crowds at the play Li'l Abner just to name a few. The theme of this years Shield is "LOOKING BACK" —LOOKING BACK" on old memories.
